The anti-virus packages listed for each anti-virus tool for computers vary in many ways. One is for PC only and some offer various packages with trials and free downloads. I do not currently have an anti-virus tool for my computer but I have tried a few before. There is sometimes a trial in order to determine whether the package you have chosen works for your device. The packages offered appear to provide specifics for whatever works for you and how ever many devices you would like to apply the package toward.
